Park Superintendent At Appomattox Dies

Robert R. Madden, 36, superintendent of the National Historic Park at Appomattox Courthouse since September, 1972, died Monday, March 11, 1974, at Magnolia Hospital in Corinth, Miss., following a long illness.

ROBERT R. MADDEN

Born in Corinth, he was a son of Mrs. T. D. Madden and the late Mr. Madden of Corinth. He was a member of Appomattox Lions Club.

He received a BA in history from the University of Southern Mississippi in 1960 and began his career with the National Park Service in 1963 as a park historian on the Natchez Trace Parkway in Mississippi, Tennessee and Alabama.

Subsequent assignments took him to Fort Frederica National Monument in Georgia and to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee.

Prior to assuming his duties at Appomattox, he was stationed at Colonial National Historical Park in Tidewater.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jean Kollins Madden; a son, Andrew Madden; a daughter, Mary Elizabeth Madden, and a brother, the Rev. Frank Madden of Jackson, Tenn.

Memorial services were conducted at Appomattox Court House National Historical Park at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the lobby of the Courthouse. Funeral services were conducted at 4 p.m. Wednesday from McPeters Chapel in Corinth, Miss.

The family has suggested that those wishing to make memorials consider the Appomattox Unit of the American Cancer Society or the cobalt machine at Lynchburg General-Marschall Lodge Hospital.

Of Interest To Race - Fans

If you're worried about getting to New London, or whether your rig will have a problem over back country roads, forget it! The track is easily accessable to several major highways such as Interstate 81, Route 460, Route 501, and Route 29. It's eight miles west of Lynchburg and you get a nice view of the Blue Ridge Mountains in case your girl friend likes to take pictures. Altitude at the track is 800 feet above sea level. New London is a ¼ mile strip with 1650 feet of shutdown (uphill).

Spectators and drivers alike will remember another pleasurable feature at the track - the gate is "manned" (Womanned?) by girls in hot pants.

New London is operated by 3-G Racing Associates: "Honest" Jim Loyd, Tom "Slick" Evers, and "Sister" Sally Evers. "Honest" Jim is a Technical Specialist who works for General Electric in Lynchburg. He maintains the Chrondek Timers at the track and is the all around troubleshooter. Tom "Slick" and "Sister" Sally are husband and wife with three children - Peyton, 5; Paula, 9; and Scott, 10. The two older children help out at the track while Peyton cheers on the drivers. Tom "Slick" also works at General Electric as an Electronics Technician and at the track he is the race director. "Sister" Sally runs the 3-G office, maintains the front gate on race day, and pays out the money and merchandise awards to the racers.

Mickey Prudhoe is technical advisor for the track this year. Anyone with questions of that nature are invited to call Mickey at 804-239-0914 (please do not call collect) after 5 p.m.

Six events with a feature for each. Tom "Slick" smiles when he invites all racers and fans to "TAKE A CRACK AT OUR TRACK". It's going to be that kind of season.
